Theme

In Fall 2017, Honours Review will publish its 10th issue. As this will be a milestone in the history of the journal, the Honours Review board has decided that this 10th issue will be devoted to the theme of ‘Celebration’. Undergraduate and graduate students from all disciplines of the University of Groningen are invited to submit an article that addresses this interdisciplinary theme. Possible topics of articles include, but are definitely not limited to, historical perceptions of festive culture (antiquity to the present day), philosophical questions concerning the festive and joy, festivities in different religions, liturgical calendars, sociological insight in grouping/community bonding and celebrating, the festive represented in art, chemistry of fireworks, physics of fire, light and mood, psychological phenomenon of flow, festivities and drugs, celebrating in literature, legislation and festivities, neurological effects of joy, etc. All perspectives on celebration are welcome, as long as they rely on scientific methods.

Articles and review process

The Honours Review likes to receive and publish papers in British English, with a length of approximately 2000 words. The journal is read by students from various backgrounds. This entails that articles should be easily readable by students from other fields than the discipline the article concerns. All articles will be peer-reviewed and evaluated by an expert.

Submission of proposals

All those who are interested are cordially invited to write a 200 words proposal for their article before 20. February and are requested to e-mail this proposal to articles@honoursreview.nl. In the proposal, authors are asked to introduce the topic of their article, as well as to reflect on the scientific discipline(s) and methodology the article will entail. Besides that, authors should mention the submission deadline they prefer, as there will be three submission deadlines for the 10th issue to streamline the reviewing processes. Authors will receive writing instructions when the proposal has been approved. In case of any questions, the Honours Review can be contacted by sending an e-mail to articles@honoursreview.nl or honoursreview@rug.nl.

WE ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO YOUR PROPOSALS!
